American McGee's ALICE

It's the year 2000 and American McGee has come out with a Dark Fantasy Action-Adventure Video Game following the Lewis Carroll novels 'Alice's Adventures in Wonderland' (1865) and 'Through the Looking-Glass' (1871). The game picks up several years after the house fire that killed Alice's family, and her undergoing years of psychiatric treatment, she makes her retreat into the Madness called Wonderland.

Now the game isn't just cool but has some EDM lore!

Alice Wicked Wonderland Tour

Now how in the world is American McGee going to promote this game..?

This tour was guided by no other than Green Velvet!

"Beyond a shattered looking glass, the insanity begins. Guided by the digital sounds of Green Velvet and the house music of Cajmere, the Alice Wicked Wonderland Tour immerses you in a multimedia world where music and video gameplay converge - a trip you won't forget!"

Artist Green Velvet

Now the combined efforts of EA and American McGee, they had a 6-stop tour!

What turntables do you use?

I use the same 2x Technics 1200 mk2's that I got from Dr Freecloud's about 13 years ago. I pitched them up to go in a 14 range, which all 1200s are capable of doing via a blue dial under the platter (and I usually do it to most turntables when no one is looking lol). I don't really play on non-technics turntables because techs are so reliable and built to last; the ones I own were made in the late 70s before I bought them from Ron D Core in 2011ish, and the only thing that has ever gone wrong with mine were that one of the pop-lights burned out finally after about 25 years of use, which cost me about 30 cents in parts to fix myself via a youtube tutorial. They're fully modular for repairs and you could almost toss them down a staircase and they'd still be usable. I have a set of Technics 1210 m5g's that have standard 16 pitch range and I bring those out to gigs or rent to people sometimes, but my home rig is still the standard 1200mk2's

Flapjack's Current

Top 5 Records

What are your most played records live?

I usually have bundles of like 2-5 records that I think go well together and bundle those in my record crate, then fly through whichever bundles I am feeling most on the spot, so I don't have many I try to consistently return to. I have definitely found myself playing M-project's 'cherry', blue sky day, and deep in the underground every 3-5 parties though since they are some of my favorites. I will usually get tired of hearing the same repeats though so I eventually always put my favorite combos in a DJ mix and then retire them from play for some years because there's just literally thousands and thousands of good hardcore records out there and I don't want to waste too much air-time with the same ones forever hahaha

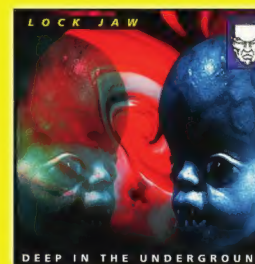

M-PROJECT - CHERRY

EVOLVE - SUGAR AND SPICE

DDZION - BLUE SKY DAY

LOCKJAW - DEEP IN THE UNDERGROUND

DISS REACTION - JIIIEEHAARA

What is your rarest vinyl?

It's kind of hard to define that in concrete terms because the most expensive record I own is not always the rarest haha. I think my copy of Pengo12 that I paid $50 for now has a high of $515 at the time of writing this, but it's not really rare per-se, since the pressing of all the pengos numbered up in the thousands, and a record that only had 1000 copies was considered low for 1996-1998. I have the kiss the fucking lownoise and the goodby record and that stompy - test of time euro mix record, both of which people ask me for on discogs a lot; as well as the bad vibes 20 test pressing and the crash test limited 002 test press that also both sell for quite a lot now. I also have weird one-offs from the early rave n beats japan days with sharpnel, some of the unreleased tizer stuff that has no audio online, and a few other things direct from hixxy's promos and stuff that has only sold once on discogs and only in 2007 or 2009 at that. At somewhere around 4600 records in my collection now, it's kind of hard to put a finger on just one that is more rare than others.

What does a record taste like?

the records I taste are also the ones that I use my feet to scratch with, so they mostly just taste like shoes or rubber lol

Have you ever broken a record while playing?

I haven't ever broken a record while playing yet, but I HAVE broken a needle while playing once or twice (one time in Chicago, both needles broke in the same set without me even doing anything crazy, oddly enough haha). I always have spares, and spares for my spares when I'm playing a gig though, as well as a backup set of emergency usbs to play a really visually boring digital set of record rips if all the gear ends up being broken beyond quick enough repair to continue, but that is not ideal hahaha. I used to even bring 4 sets of physical CDs in case the USB ports were ALSO busted, which now I think most CDJs don't even accept discs anymore, so I've stopped having to do that thankfully (or not maybe?)

AI ART & RAVING

Rave art has always been a display of organizers' creativity and a showcase of the community's style.

It can be a redesign of a cereal box or even a written paper. It's a scale and you, the creator, get to choose how much effort, and creativity to pour into the graphics and flyers. As we continue to evolve in how we make art, we meet new challenges that may stand in our way. AI has begun to find its way into the mainstream, and artists today have it as a tool for quick ideas and designs. However, it's being seen more and more in rave flyers and posters. This isn't the end of the world, but to see bigger companies, corporations, and organizers use AI as their designs disheartens the hungry artist in me, and should light a fire under us as creators. The companies we look up to are starting to prioritize the profit and affordability over quality, despite the designs looking less complete, having noticeable "AI" flaws in the artwork, and less attention to detail and time put into a piece from an artist, from a person. The usage of AI serves to speed up the creation of art, but it simply devalues the work put into art. So support your local artist, commission some graphics, pay for a drawing, or DIY! Let's continue to have scenes created by people for people! Share the PEACE, the LOVE, the UNITY, and the RESPECT!

PLUR means Peace, Love, Unity, and Respect. The movement started a long time before I got here by DJ Frankie Bones and his brother Adam X Mitchell. It has fascinated me that after all these years, their idea and message is still ringing true through the community.

What does Plur Space mean?

The name Plur Space is a throwback to an old rave site which took their inspiration from the social media site Myspace. Our main goal is to help ravers, djs, and organizers network, and create safe spaces to rave. We love to bring people together.

What influences your designs?

The early rave companies used to take things from pop culture and change it to make it a rave thing. I love seeing that, so almost everything I put out is a reference to pop culture in some way, changed to make it a rave thing. The other half of my designs are similar to retro anime. There used to be this anime clothing brand I used to rock as a kid called Plastik, I loved it so there's some inspiration coming from there as well.

How do events get PLUR stamps?

I got the idea one day because a friend asked me to repost their event. There is a checklist I go through. I go over things like who the organizer is, who is bringing sound, who is doing visuals/lighting, who the DJs are, etc. I've usually attended their raves myself and met the organizer personally, or, they've opened up a line of communication with me to keep me informed on the inner workings of a particular event. I really see all the hard work that goes into a rave and it never ceases to impress me. Overall though, I've determined that they are of good moral character and are putting in work to create a safe environment for people to rave in.

THIS MOVIE IS AN INSIDE LOOK INTO A NIGHT OF SAN FRANCISCO RAVING IN THE EARLY 2000'S. A TIME CAPSULE FOR WHAT WAS EARLY RAVING WHERE FORUMS AND FRIENDS KNOWING GOT YOU INTO THE RAVE AND THE BIRTH OF PLUR AS THESE EARLY RAVES BROUGHT ALL KINDS OF PEOPLE TOGETHER AS A COMMUNITY.

NOCTURNAL

— WONDERLAND —

by Luna (Pamela)

Most days Glenn Helen is a beautiful family park with picnics & limited waterpark activities, BUT 1 weekend during September it's transformed into an enchanting playground for the most creative of souls. Multicolor lasers fill the grounds, neon lights take over the sky, a mashup of chatters fills all areas. A safe space is created to all walks of life, young, old, rich or poor. There is no judgment I can remove my admin hat, put on my moss and sunflower covered mushroom cap, and frolic with the whimsical fairies around me. The waves of music hit your soul, the dust rises as the crowd jumps in the air as the bass drops. If your not too lost in the music, you take a moment to look around and see all the gleaming faces, smiles, tears, and hugs all around me.

IM FINALLY HOME!

Everyone around me has counted down the days to unite under the moonlight and roll down the steep hills. The rave families we've created are meeting again, dancing all night long as we forget our pains, worries, and even responsibilities for just a few seconds. This is what makes our Nocturnal Wonderland. <3

DAVID ZAHX

What kinda music do you like to play?

I love to play hard groove, hardstyle, and techno, as well as dark wave and ska. But if I had to pick I will always go w/ drum n bass... n jungle

Thinking back on your time raving do you have a favorite rave memory?

I have countless rave memories from my earliest days in 2009 to this day with my tribe, but the memories that I'll always cherish were the ones spent raving with my brother in 2012, where I experienced Andy C and Netsky on a huge sound system for the first time. From that day on, I wanted to be at every Drum n Bass stage possible.

Previously on Bass Realm

What is the vision for Bass Realm?

I know how it can be going to new places. I want Bass Realm to be the safe haven for ravers, bass heads, newbies, and introverts that want to discover underground music.

Did you grow up watching or playing Yu-Gi-Oh?
and how does it influence your art direction?

I grew up playing and watching Yu-Gi-Oh every Saturday morning as a child. The artwork always stood with me when I needed inspiration on how to approach the design of my flyers.

Now.. whilst interviewing Flux from Plur Space, they mentioned a past website that they were inspired by: "Plurlife.com". The website started on Febuary 21st, 2008 and was created as a platform similar to MySpace specifically about raving. Here are some recovered post from a now semi-archived website.
